
现代语境中的儒学发展

210093

伴

书

互

互

从

专

伴

伴 伴 书 伴

互 伴 书

互

伴

伦 互

互

书 伴

书 伴

互

伦

伴

书

伴

互

伴

互

书

亮

仰

仰 互
互

书 书

1921

仰 亮 互 亮 伴 亮 亮 亮

[1]

互

伴

伴

[2]

互

书 书

书

1685

书

$E=mc^2$

书

hard-core theory

互

书

soft theory [3]

伴

伴

互

互

互

[1]

2006 173
1988 21

[2]

[3]

伴

[1]

互

互

互

互

互

[2]

互

[3]

互

伴

互

互

互

了

书

互

亮

互

互

伴

书

互

[4]

伴

壹

专

[5]

仰

专

互

书

书

书

专

专

专

[1]

1988

38

[2]

François Châtelet

2000

11

[3][4][5]

1988

49

31 32

34

互

互

互

书

伴

书

书

互

书

互

互

书

价

仰

仰

书

书

亮

互

伴

伴

伴

互

90

书

书

互

Confucianism Development Under Modern Language Circumstance

Tong Qiang

Abstract: In the course of China's modernization, accompanied by great changes of social life on which it is based, Confucianism declines. The reconstruction of modern Confucianism first relies on theoretical construction, by which Confucianism breaks the shackle of stereotyped discourse into a modern context. In the modern context, it not only provides creative response to problems caused by modernity, but also echoes great contemporary achievements in China. From its unique standpoint, Confucianism is meant to discover cultural connotations pertained in great achievements of contemporary reform and opening practice.

Keywords: Confucianism; theory; decontextualize; re-contextualize