The Perspective of Time–Space Conception: an Interpretation of the Modernization of State Governance System and Governance Capability

Ren Dexin Chu Yongsheng Lu Kaixuan

Abstract: The Marxist conception of time and space provides a better interpretation for the modernization of state governance system and governance capability. For one thing, from the time dimension, the modernization of state governance system and governance capability reflects both the continuity in goals and tasks in different stages of socialist construction and the difference in developmental phases as well as complexity, difficulty and durability in the socialist system construction and improvement. For another, from the space dimension, it reveals the change of state functions and roles as well as the game and conflict between multiple subjects of interest.

Keywords: social time–space conception; state governance system and governance capability; modernization
